Business Continuity for the Smaller Business

You're probably familiar with the term 'business continuity'. It may be one of those issues you intend to tackle but somehow never get around to. Or perhaps, as a smaller business, you think it doesn't apply to you. But, unfortunately, history shows that unforeseen events can strike any business, anywhere at any time. Doesn't it make sense to have a contingency plan so you can continue trading? The advent of BS25999, the first British Standard in business continuity, is making the subject harder to ignore as larger firms seek to secure their supply chains.

SunGard Availability Services is the world expert on business continuity. We've got over 30 years' experience helping to keep companies running – no matter what. We've helped our many customers through the Buncefield oil depot explosion, the London bombings and numerous other less newsworthy events.

You may think we're only interested in supporting other large concerns. You'd be wrong. In fact, SunGard has established a specialist team specifically to meet the special needs of smaller businesses. It provides a range of highly cost-effective services that are tailored for organisations with between 50 and 200 employees. Welcome to SafetyNet.

Help! We've got a crisis.
